

Editorial

Dear Readers,

Patterns and testing are the dominant theme of the feature-length papers in this issue. Six columns and a software review of Borland's latest incarnation of JBuilder round out this issue.

I am grateful to the authors that continue to send manuscripts from all over the world. I wish a happy summer to our readers in the northern hemisphere and wish a happy winter to our readers in the southern part of our globe.

Hope you find this issue of JOT useful.
